DECLARED IMPOSSIBLE.

Ziegenhein Is Relegated in Formation of Akins-Bartholdt-Joy-Globe Combination.

HISTORY REVEALED.

Why Major Pearce Was Turned Down in 1900-Passing of Merchants' League Club-A Republican's Comments.

All talk of "harmonizing" the factions in the Republican party of St. Louis has subsided for the present. Ziegenhein has been eliminated with Kerens. The coterie of polflicians which met at the headquarters of the Merchants' League Club a few weeks ago are out of the game, so far as it con-cerns preparing for the next local election.

This has come about as a natural result of the formation of the Akins-Joy-Bartholdt-Globe combination. Without the aid of the Globe-Democrat and Kerens, the old City Hall Republican crowd has nothing to offer henchmen. They have not a job that can be "distributed." And, as one of them remarked yesterlay, "our records are noth-ing to brag about, so that our promises for the future will not sell in the gold brick

Instead of "harmony" the present cry is to get into the "Big Four" band wagon. Locally, the Akins-Joy-Bartholdt-Globe combination will be represented by the St. Louis Republican Club. Any of the old gang who want to stay in politics will have to get in company that will seem decidedly strange to them.
"This means the finish of the Merchants' League Club," remarked a weil-posted Re-publican yesterday. "Bob Day and his friends in the Vandeventer avenue organization stand for the things upon which President Roosevelt insists. They want clean men. They have no earthly use for the Ziegenhein crowd. Though they have treated Kerens with decency, they have lit-tle practical use for some of his methods. "And the reason of their dislike is not far to seek. Ziegenhein and Kerens worked together when the St. Louis Republican Club thought that they themselves were ace high. They think that Kerens has played practical politics with them. They think this despite that they have no actual evidence of the fact.

"Major Pearce wanted to go back to Congress in 1500. Do you remember how surprised everybody was when Horton was nominated in his place in an open-and-shut convention, where Major Pearce's name was not even mentioned as a candidate, though file record was indorsed in true hot-air fashion. Well, there was a reason for this, and Major Pearce knows it. Until after the Republican National Convention he thought that Johnny Owen, chairman of the Congressional Committee, was for him, Owen had always professed to be his friend, and has a winning way, you know. Kerens Helped Throw Pearce.

Kerens Helped Throw Pearce.

"Baumhoff, at that time manager of the Transit lines, was blamed for Pearce's throw-down, though Kerens should have shared the blame. Kerens controlled the convestion. He also saw in it a way to help bis own boom for Senator. But I shall let the facts speak for themselves. Owen and Schweickardt were named as delegates to the National Republican Convention. Kerens had pledged them to vote for him as National Committeeman from Missouri. They saw that Horton's name was presented to the convention. A few days before the convention met Owen had seen to it that Pearce's name should not be presented. Owen told Pearce that the boys thought how was too cold-blooded. For himself, of course, he did not believe any such thing. "Now this is the question that has bothered the St. Louis Republican Club: Did Ed Buller promise to help Kerens at the primaries and at the polls when Kerens should become a candidate for Senator from Missouri, and was the nomination of Horton, the weakest nominee for Congress whom they could find, a part of the bargain? "Several things are remembered in con-whom they could find, a part of the bargain?

"Several things are remembered in connection with this query. Kerens manifested no interest whatever in the Tweith District fight. One or two honest Republicans on the Republican Congressional Committee complained at the time that Kerens would not send them even the usual amount of money to beip along the cause. Even such men as Charles Parsons were so convinced that a throwdown at the polls was contemplated that they refused for a long time to make contributions.

"Horton was forced by the St. Louis Republican Club to contest Butler's election. At first he refused to do so. Such a clamor was raised that he perfunctorily signed the contest papers. You didn't hear of him attending the hearings where testimony was taken, did you? Fisse, one of the founders of the St. Louis Republican Club, did all the work of prosecuting the contest. Kerens did not figure. Apparently he did not care.

"Now the fellows in the Vandeventer organization are too high-minded a lot to submit to that sort of thing. They don't believe in practical politics. They think that prestly speeches and pink-tea receptions are the proper caper in carrying wards. They don't believe in Indians. And if Kerens really did have this egg on with Ed Butler, he certainly showed a predilection for the warrior in politics.

"These deductions can mean but one warrior in politics.

Owen Slate to Ge.

"These deductions can mean but one thing. John H. Owen, who is now in Internal Revenue Collector Granner's office, will lose his job about as soon as his bose loses his job. He will not get the place in the rural free delivery department for which he has applied. Norman Floraheim, another Ziegenhein pet and a member of the Twelfith District Congressional Committee, will probably go back to Ziegenhein for a job.

"But Ziegenhein is out of the will probably go back to Ziegenhein for a job.

"But Ziegenhein is out of the deal. With the Globe-Democrat in the "Big Four" combination and Kerens in the cold, his political days, even in his own party, are numbered. Bartholdt will not help him, for Ziegenhein at one time tried to lay the wires for Bartholdt's seat.

"There is one funny thing in connection with the new deal. Hiram Lloyd, one time besom friend of Ziegenhein, has blossomed out as the president of the newly organised St. Louis Ropewelt Club. He was placed on the Republican ticket last spring for Marshal at the dictation of the Ziegenhein crowd. Just what share of the spoils he will claim from the new deal is a matter of speculation."

"If I am Pat Crowe," he said, "I do not know it."

When he was told that the Chief of Police of Little Rock had identified his photograph as that of Pat Crowe, he again replied; "If I am Pat Crowe, I don't know it; in fact, I know nothing about Pat Crowe, except what I read in the newspapers."

Rathbun was sieeping soundly in his cell. He was slow to answer questions and seemed anxious to return to his bunk.

HE TOOK POISON AT SUPPER. William Albert in Serious Condition at City Hospital. William Albert, 25 years old, of No. 1807 Wash street, swallowed morphine at the supper table at his home last night and was taken to the City Hospital in a serious condition.

When he entered the dining-room he appeared despondent. A moment after he seated himself he drew a phial from his inner pocket, raised it to his lips and swallowed lits contents.

"Good-by, all." he said.

Then he leaned forward on his elbows and was still. His wife rushed to him and inquired what alied him. Finally he admitted that he had taken poison.

At the hospital he would not say what prompted him to the act. His wife stated to the police that he has been unemployed of late and brooded over his failure to obtain a restition.

BELIEVES X RAYS WILL CURE CANCER.

Medical College Professor Claims Success in Every Case Treated -Says Disease Is Conquered.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.
Chicago, Nov. 13.—"We are in the begin ning of an era when cancer will have no terrors. In the last year and a half I have treated over fifty cases of cancer, including many forms of the disease, and have not failed to find a single one that

Doctor Gliman's method is simple. The patient receives remedies which will supply material needed for the rebuilding of the destroyed tissue, and he is subjected to the influence of the X-rays every day for a few weeks or months, as the case may be, in order that the cancer may be destroyed.

One case which Doctor Gliman is treating now is that of a Nebraska ranchman. The whole left side of his face was affected by the cancer. The growth pressed on the

There was danger that at any moment the walls of some of the main blood vessels in his neck would give way, causing instant death. He has been under treatment two months, is getting well and soon will leave the hospital. The tissues are being restored, so that he will look like himself again when his cure is complete.

STRUCK BY RUNAWAY HORSE.

August Hareter Is Probably Fatally Injured. August Hareter of No. 233 Wainut street, while crossing Manchester avenue at Ewing avenue yesterday morning, was knocked down by a runaway horse and sustained a fracture of the right shoulder blade and internal injuries. He was attended by Doctor A. O. Young of No. 278 Chouteau avenue, who pronounced him in a serious condition. The horse was attached to a wagon of the Baccus Heating Company, No. 1911 Olive street, and ran from the corner of Garrison avenue and Locust street to Manchester and Ewing avenues before it was stopped. At Ewing and Lawton avenues the horse collided with a wagon belonging to Lane & O'Connell of No. 200 Franklin avenue, and siso coilided with a wagon belonging to F. E. Niese of No. 2014 Easton avenue.

INTERCEDED FOR YOUNG HAGAN.

Doctor Lee Interested Himself in Boy's Case at Request of a Friend.

At the request of a Catholic friend in Atlanta, Ga., the Reverend Doctor James W. Lee, paster of St. John's Methodist Epucopal Church, South, went yesterday to ask that runaway Paul Hagan be permitted to join the Catholic Church, to which the lad claimed that his mother had belonged. Young Hagan lived with his grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hagan, at No. 1730 Franklin avenue, until two weeks ago, when he ran away. Mrs. Mary Calkins of the Golden Chain Humane Society has since asked the courts for his custody. The boy claimed that his grandparents insisted that he attend a Methodist Sunday school, when he felt that he should go to a Catholic church, as his mother had done, and that, because of this disagreement, he left home.

church, as his mother had done, and that, because of this disagreement, he left home. The boy's story was printed in the local newspapers, and was read by P. J. Moran, one of the editors of the Atlanta Constitution. Moran is a devout Catholic and his sympathy was aroused. He remembered Doctor Lee, who formerly lived in Atlanta, and at once wrote, asking that the latter intercede on behalf of the boy "in the interest of conscience."

Doctor Lee, who formerly lived in Atlanta, and at once wrote, asking that the latter intercede on behalf of the boy "in the interest of conscience."

Doctor Lee visited the Hagan home yeardray and explained his mission. In speaking of the matter last night he said. "I certainly feit that I was only doing what was fair in asking that the boy be permitted to adopt the religion of his mother if he felt that it was what he desired. But after a long talk with Mrs. Hagan and the boy's older sister, I am convinced that religious differences had really nothing to do with the trouble.

"Mrs. Hagan told me that the boy had lived with her and her husband since both his parents died. seven years ago. His mother never was a Catholic. Mrs. Hagan sent the boy and his sister to the Sunday school at Centenary Church all those seven years until a few months ago, when Paul saked to be permitted to go to St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church with some of his young friends. Mrs. Hagan gave permission and the boy went to that church several times. But in the meantime he became gradually unruly and finally refused to wash his face and put on cleas clothes to go to church one Sunday moraing. Then his grandmother would not let him attend any but a Methodist Church is, I believe, pure fiction.

"T shall write to Mr. Moran, whom I esteem highly, and tell him what I saw and I believe that Mr. and Mrs. Hearn hear done everything they these circumstances. I believe that Mr. and Mrs. Hagan have done everything they could to bring the boy up right, but that he has fallen under bad influences that have no relation whatever, to matters of creed."

Causes Clash Between City Hall Official and Contractor.

Flad's office was the cause of trouble yesterday between Secretary Holland and workmen employed by Contractor T. W. Hackett. The men were engaged in building the framework when Mr. Holland arrived yesterday morning. He ordered then to discontinue until a question as to the quality of glass to be used would be actited.

Officer Lee was summoned to compel the men to quit. While Mr. Holland was in City Counselor Schnurmacher's office officer Lee went to the office of President Phillips of the Board of Public Improvements, where he was advised, after asking for information, to permit the work to proceed, Mr. Schnurmacher counseled Mr. Holland against interference.

The dispute results over a difference of opinion between the contractor and the Water Department over the glass to be used. Mr. Flad claims that he is at liberty, under the contract, to select chipped glass, while the contractor's attorney, Jesse McDonald, insists that the price stated in the contract determines the character of the glass.

While laying a main under Main street at Rutger street yesterday. Water Department workmen were interrupted by an on-ploye of the Iron Mountain Railroad, who declared that the city had no right to put mains under the railroad tracks. The work was continued under difficulties. As similar questions will arise in connection with work of other city departments, yesterday's case may be made a test, in order to ascertain the city's rights.

PROFESS TO BE PUZZLED.

How War Department Regards Russell Harrison's Statement. REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Washington, Nov. 13 .- Officials of the War Department are somewhat puzzled over the statement made by Russell B. Harrison that he has embraced the law for the special purpose of securing vindication for "the unjust and unmilitary treatment" meted out to him by the War Depart-meted out to him by the War Department.

Mr. Harrison was mustered out of the volunteer army, in which he served as a Lieutenant Colonel.

In a letter to Mr. Harrison Secretary Root has spoken of his splendid record. This has not been regarded as sufficient by Mr. Harrison. He desired reinstatement in the Inspector General's Department, which was possible for a time, but the appointment was not made. Department officials say that as the volunteer army has gone out of existence it is no longer possible to reappoint Mr. Harrison, nor is it possible to give him an appointment as inspector General, for the reason that the army reorganization law requires the detail of officers from the line to that department.

In Attempting to Board Transit Coach Suburban Train Crushes Him to Death.

While attempting to board a Lee avenue car of the St. Louis Transit Company on Locust street, between Broadway and Sixth street, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Leo Fisher, a pressman, living at No. 1917 Montgomery street, was struck by car No. 123 of the St. Louis and Suburban line, and sustained injuries which resulted in his death a few moments later.

Fisher was on his way home from work when the accident happened, and intended to board a Lee avenue car at the downtown when the accident happened, and intended to board a Lee avenue car at the downtown terminus of the line, on Locust street, near Broadway. He crossed the north track in front of the westbound Suburban car. A Lee avenue car going in the opposite direction was approaching, and Fisher grabbed the arm rail. As he awung around to mount the step, he was struck by the Suburban car and fell between the moving cars.

The man's head fell under the Suburban car and was caught beneath the motor box. The body was dragged ten feet before the car was stopped. Then the injured man was removed. He was alive, but expired before the ambulance arrived. The man's head and chest were crushed. The body was removed to the morgue.

The Suburban car was in charge of Motorman W. S. Risk. He says his car was running slowly at the time and the Lee avenue car was going at a much higher rate of speed.
